

How a community can be changed through one small prayer room.

Maureen, Rhonda & some prayer friends in the suburb of Lentegeur in Mitchell's Plain(Cape Town) have been praying faithfully for their community for more than 15 years. This year they decided to set up a Boiler Room at a local church in their neighbourhood for the 10 Days of night and day prayer preceding the Global Day of Prayer.

They invited every intercessor they could find but none came to take a slot. After being somewhat discouraged, they decided that the two of them would come to the prayer room every day to pray for revival in their community. Then suddenly the Lord Jesus started answering their prayers in a way they have never experienced before.

It all started with one sick person asking for prayer. The Lord healed him and his testimony went around. Then all of a sudden people would come for prayer. One person came who needed a job. They simply prayed for him. A few minutes later the man called them to say that someone called him as he left the room to offer him a job.

Soon people would come with all kinds of requests. One drug addict came to the prayer room to ask for prayer. After visiting the prayer room the third time, he surrendered his life to the Lord Jesus. These two ladies continued to gather in the prayer room daily as people continued to ask for prayer. They also prayed for the drug dealing in their neighbourhood. During the same week the police came and arrested three of the drug lords.

Then some other churches heard about this story and three pastors came to visit the prayer room. They were so encouraged that they each decided to start a Boiler Room at their own congregation.
